

California Girl: Miss USA 1959

By Terry Huntingdon Tydings

Outskirts Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Paperback. 170 pages. Dimensions: 7.9in. x 5.0in. x 0.6in. On Saturday, June 27, 1959, Terry Huntingdon was crowned Miss California; less than a month later she became Miss United States of America, and two days after that she stood beside Akiko Kojima, Miss Universe, as her 2nd Runner-Up, holding the trophy that she had been awarded for delivering the best speech at the pageant. In that address she spoke with great pride of her family background -- ten percent of the immigrants aboard the Mayflower in 1620 were her ancestors. She spoke of her relatives who, two hundred years later, crossed the Isthmus of Panama to arrive in San Francisco during the California Gold Rush; and of the ancestors who were the first white people to settle in Wintun Indian territory. She talked about her great, great, grandfather, who had driven the stagecoach from Strawberry Valley to the Oregon border, forging the route now known as Interstate 5. The book then narrates her television and motion picture careers during the year of her reign, includes social exchanges with the incomparable Bob Hope, American Bandstand performer, Paul Anka, Groucho Marx, of The Price Is Right, Ricky...
